

LIMELIGHT

presented by South Valley Civic Theatre

The Wolves - Roles

We are holding open auditions for: One soccer mom and nine young women playing 16 - 17 year old high school soccer players. Limelight and South Valley Civic Theatre expect that all people, regardless of race, ethnicity, sexual identity, culture, age, gender expression, background, ability, economic status, education, credentials and experience have the opportunity to be engaged in our programming. We encourage all actors to audition. All roles are volunteer and non-AEA.

#11: Midfield – (Seventeen)

Brainy, morbid, budding elitist, thoughtful. Curious about the world and grapples with questions of morality.

"I never said we should take our liberties for granted."

#25: Defense, Captain – (Seventeen)

Classic (ex)coach's daughter. Works to keep everyone in line, both physically and socially, while also making an attempt to strike out on her own with a new relationship.

"I mean we like to have fun but you know uh 'if you can't say something nice don't say anything at all'?"

#13: Midfield – (Sixteen)

Stoner, older pot dealer brother, into her wackiness. Self-medicates with marijuana and attempts to understand the complexity of relationships.

"We should be like very very thankful for our liberties you know."

#2: Defense – (Sixteen)

Innocent, unlucky, kind, skinny. More innocent than the other girls, has strong religious beliefs and a secret eating disorder.

"I eat plenty of protein I like basically live on peanut butter and cheese!"

#14: Midfield – (Sixteen)

#7's insecure sidekick. Just switched to contacts. Tries to be as cool as her friend #7, but struggles with the pressure of sex and growing up before she is quite ready. She brings orange slices to practice and the team takes a photo with orange slices in their mouths, growing closer.

"...alright, um, look fierce."

#46: Bench – (Sixteen)

New girl. Awkward, different. Struggles awkwardly, and often unsuccessfully, to fit in, but eventually proves that she is a worthy teammate.

"Why can't I make a pregnancy joke?"

#7: Striker – (Almost Seventeen)

Too cool for school. Sarcastic. "fuck," thick eyeliner. Loses a bit of her cool factor when she gets injured and has to miss the last game in the season. She watches in dismay as #46 appears to usurp her position as striker.

"We don't do genocides 'til senior year."

#8: Defense – (Sixteen)

Plays dumber than she is so that people will like her. Sixteen.

"I am getting such a bad grade in social studies."

#00: Goalie – (Seventeen)

Intense performance anxiety, perfectionist, high achiever. Seventeen. #00 copes with intense anxiety which causes her to vomit before every game.

"Hey my ACL's acting up."

Soccer Mom – (late thirties to late forties)

Soccer Mom shows up at practice after the death of her daughter, bringing with her a bag of orange slices and grief.

"You're not getting any younger you know?"
