

South Valley: Prepare for the Arrival of Count Dracula

Gilroy Dispatch

Thursday, October 6, 2005 12:00 am

Dracula, played by Cory Lofstrom, makes an entrance during the South Valley Civic Theatre production of 'Count Dracula' at the Morgan Hill Playhouse.

The story of the blood-sucking count from Transylvania will come to the South Valley stage beginning tomorrow.

"Count Dracula" the play, produced by Richard and Becky Kaiser and directed by JoAnna Evans, is based on Bram Stoker's 19th-century novel "Dracula." It will be performed by the South Valley Civic Theatre at the Morgan Hill Community Playhouse at the corner of Monterey Road and Dunne Ave.

Tickets, $15 for adults and $12 for students and seniors, are available at the Gilroy Visitors Bureau at 7780 Monterey St. in Gilroy, at Booksmart, 17415 S. Monterey St. in Morgan Hill, and at the Morgan Hill Community and Cultural Center at the corner of Dunne Ave. and Monterey St. in Morgan Hill.

The show runs Oct. 7, 8, 14, 15, 21, 22, 28 and 29 at 8pm and Oct. 16 and 23 at 2pm.

For more information, visit www.svct.org or call (408) 842-SHOW.